

Endowments Provide Everlasting Benefits

DIAMOND FOUNDATION SHINES ON CTY

Endowing a summer scholarship is one way to ensure that more bright, deserving students—regardless of their family income—will benefit from the CTY experience.

That thinking prompted Jennifer and her husband, Bob, to create The Diamond Family Foundation Endowed Scholarship, which will support in perpetuity qualified students whose families cannot afford to send them to CTY. The Diamonds also sponsor annual scholarships for promising low-income students in the belief that the CTY experience will have a great impact on their education.

As president of the family foundation, Jennifer Diamond said CTY has provided continuity to her children's education as they moved from the United States to Japan to London for Bob's career. (He currently is the chief executive of Barclays Capital in London.)

"In the many places we have lived, they always had access to CTY distance education and summer programs," she said, adding that CTY has provided Nellie and Robert Jr. peers with shared intellectual interests that they continue to stay in touch with online. Robert Jr. is now an alumni member.

The Diamond's endowment is an everlasting expression of their desire to show underprivileged children a better life through academic achievement. "For every child like ours who attends CTY, there should be a child who is bright and financially needy," Jennifer Diamond said.

For more information about creating an endowment to help current and future CTY students, contact Margaret Walsh, mwalsh@jhu.edu, or 410-735-6005.

Endowments

CTY is grateful to those contributing to the endowments that provide support both for students and for special CTY funded programs.

THANK YOU!

We extend our thanks to every donor who has contributed to the success of the Center for Talented Youth. The support of parents, friends, alumni, staff, foundations, and corporations has given CTY the resources to develop new programs, open additional summer sites, and welcome qualifying students whose families could not afford to send them. • Below, we recognize all donors who made a gift to CTY of $100 or more between July 1, 2005 and June 30, 2006. We also want to thank the many individuals and institutions who gave to CTY anonymously and those who gave in smaller amounts.

Lynfred, of Brooklyn, N.Y., said she has always wanted to be a doctor when she grows up, but it was not until she steered her classmates through the dissection of a shark as a Next Generation Venture Fund scholar that she found her true calling within the profession. “The Animal Science course really opened up the excitement of a new area of science for me,” she said, adding that she hopes to study biomedical engineering in college.

Theresa lives with her family in East Los Angeles. She says Computer Science: Introduction to Programming was the most challenging yet of the three CTY courses she has taken. "I'm not normally someone who is so technical," she said, adding that the course has boosted her confidence in her computing skills. "If it weren't for (the scholarship), my family could never have been able to come up with the money for me to attend," she said.

Jason said the three weeks he spent taking CTY courses on Dickinson College's campus for the past two summers has revealed more opportunities for academic achievement than available in his New Jersey hometown – where the middle school graduation class numbered about 100. “CTY has helped improve my critical and analytical thinking skills and developed my essay writing,” he said. Jason is considering a career in economics to bridge his interests in math and his CTY courses in Modern European History and International Politics.

CTY's 2006 Advisory Board

CTY's Advisory Board is composed of volunteers who provide advice to CTY leadership, help make CTY's programs better known, and assist in fundraising efforts. Most are parents of CTY students, and two are CTY alumni. All share a passion for the education of highly gifted students. The entire CTY family owes them a debt of gratitude.

In Memoriam: Julian Stanley

CTY dedicates this annual report to the honor and memory of CTY's founder, Dr. Julian Cecil Stanley, who died August 12, 2005, at age 87.

Dr. Stanley was a humanitarian and visionary. His chance meeting decades ago with a mathematically gifted young man led first to research and then a program—CTY—that reshaped the face of education for hundreds of thousands of academically gifted young people to follow.

"Dr. Stanley's work led directly to the creation of a robust national program that offers gifted children the chance to take accelerated and enriched course work in the company of other extremely bright peers," said Dr. Lea Ybarra, executive director of Hopkins' Center for Talented Youth.

Dr. Stanley lived to see the renaming of his flagship program to bear his name. The Julian C. Stanley Study of Exceptional Talent continues its mission of counseling and mentoring students who, before age 13, earn scores of 700 or higher on the math or verbal portion of the SAT.

During his career, Dr. Stanley wrote or edited 19 books and over 500 articles in professional journals. He served as president of the American Educational Research Association, the National Council on Measurement in Education, and two divisions of the American Psychological Association. In 2000, Dr. Stanley was awarded Mensa's first Lifetime Achievement Award.

An ethical and moral reason for working with gifted children infused Dr. Stanley's persistent advocacy. In response to questions about why he was so passionate to see the intellect nurtured to its greatest capacity, Dr. Stanley often responded with the words of John Greenleaf Whittier:

Of all sad words of tongue or pen,

The saddest are these: 'it might have been.'

Dr. Stanley kept regular office hours at CTY up until a week before his death, and his humor and insight are missed. A permanent endowment in his name has been established at CTY.
